

INVITATION for a free WEB-SEMINAR
On Wednesday September 16, 19:00-19:45 (CET)
A Springer Spaniel that lost his spring

Dear colleagues,

Today we would like to invite you to our next web-seminar of the English-language online series on the topic "A Springer Spaniel that lost his spring".

In this web-seminar we will approach an interesting case of insulinoma.

SPEAKER

Kasia Purzycka, DVM, MVetMed, MRCVS, DipACVIM

American Specialist in Veterinary Oncology, Anderson Moores Veterinary Specialists, UK

Kasia obtained her veterinary degree in 2014 in Warsaw, Poland. Following a rotating internship in small animals at the University hospital in Munich, Germany, she moved to the United Kingdom where she completed a specialised oncology internship at the Animal Health Trust referral hospital in Newmarket. She has completed her residency in medical oncology at the Royal Veterinary College in October 2019 and successfully passed the certifying examination of the American College of Veterinary Internal Medicine (ACVIM) Oncology in the same year becoming an American Veterinary Specialist in Oncology. She also completed master degree with the final research project on canine T cell lymphoma.

Currently, Kasia is expanding the oncology service at Anderson Moores Veterinary Specialists, one of the biggest referrals in the UK. Kasia has lectured for veterinarians across the world, including Poland, UK, Austria and Hong Kong. She has published various papers for general practitioners in Poland and the UK.
